We have made a linguistic and cultural adaptation of the "Occupational Performance Historical Interview (OPHI-II), assessment from the Model of Human Occupation (MOHO). Since previous translations, made in Mexico and Chile, OPHI-II presented some differences in the use of terms that were causing confusion or mistakes to Spanish occupational therapists.

This instrument was applied to a group of 93 adult patients with severe mental illness. Researchers made a study of interjudge reliability and test-retest reliability.

This study was supported by the Health Authorities in Andalucía (Consejería de Salud. Andalucía. (España).
