

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY TRAINING INSTITUTIONS/SCHOOLS IN AFRICA

Victor Alochi

Serenity Centre, Kampala,, Uganda

Introduction: For years now occupational therapy as a profession is being taught in Africa and thousands of people have qualified as professionals in the profession.

There is an increasing number of institutions that are getting involved in the training of people in Occupational Therapy as a profession in Africa.

Objectives:

1. To give the current statistics and location of the Occupational Therapy Schools in Africa
2. To give the contact information of the Occupational Therapy schools in Africa
3. To give average number of students and intake of new students per year in Africa

Approach: This paper is based on research

Practice Implications: Through the focus of the knowledge of Occupational Therapy Training schools in Africa, practitioners and those willing to join and contact the schools will be able to access information about the training institutions in Africa.

Conclusion: This gives the current statistics of Occupational Therapy Training Institutions/Schools in Africa and their contacts.